Russian History

The Dryden Press wishes to announce an exciting array of new and recent books in Russian history:

Basil Dmytryshyn, Portland State University
Imperial Russia A Source Book 1700-1917,
Second Edition. February 1974, 512 pages, $6.00.

The appeal of this best selling volume of primary source material has now been enhanced by the addition of the texts of twenty-five major treaties the government of Imperial Russia negotiated with its neighbors.

Virgil Medlin, Oklahoma City University
The Russian Revolution
(A European Problem Study) October 1, 1973, 198 pages, $3.00.

A collection of secondary sources dealing with the nature and causes of the Russian Revolution.

Massimo Salvadori, Smith College
The Rise of Modern Communism,
Third Edition (A Berkshire Study in European History) Spring 1974, 224 pages, $3.00.

An updating of Salvadori's major study of the development of the Communist movement in the Twentieth Century.
